THE 1937

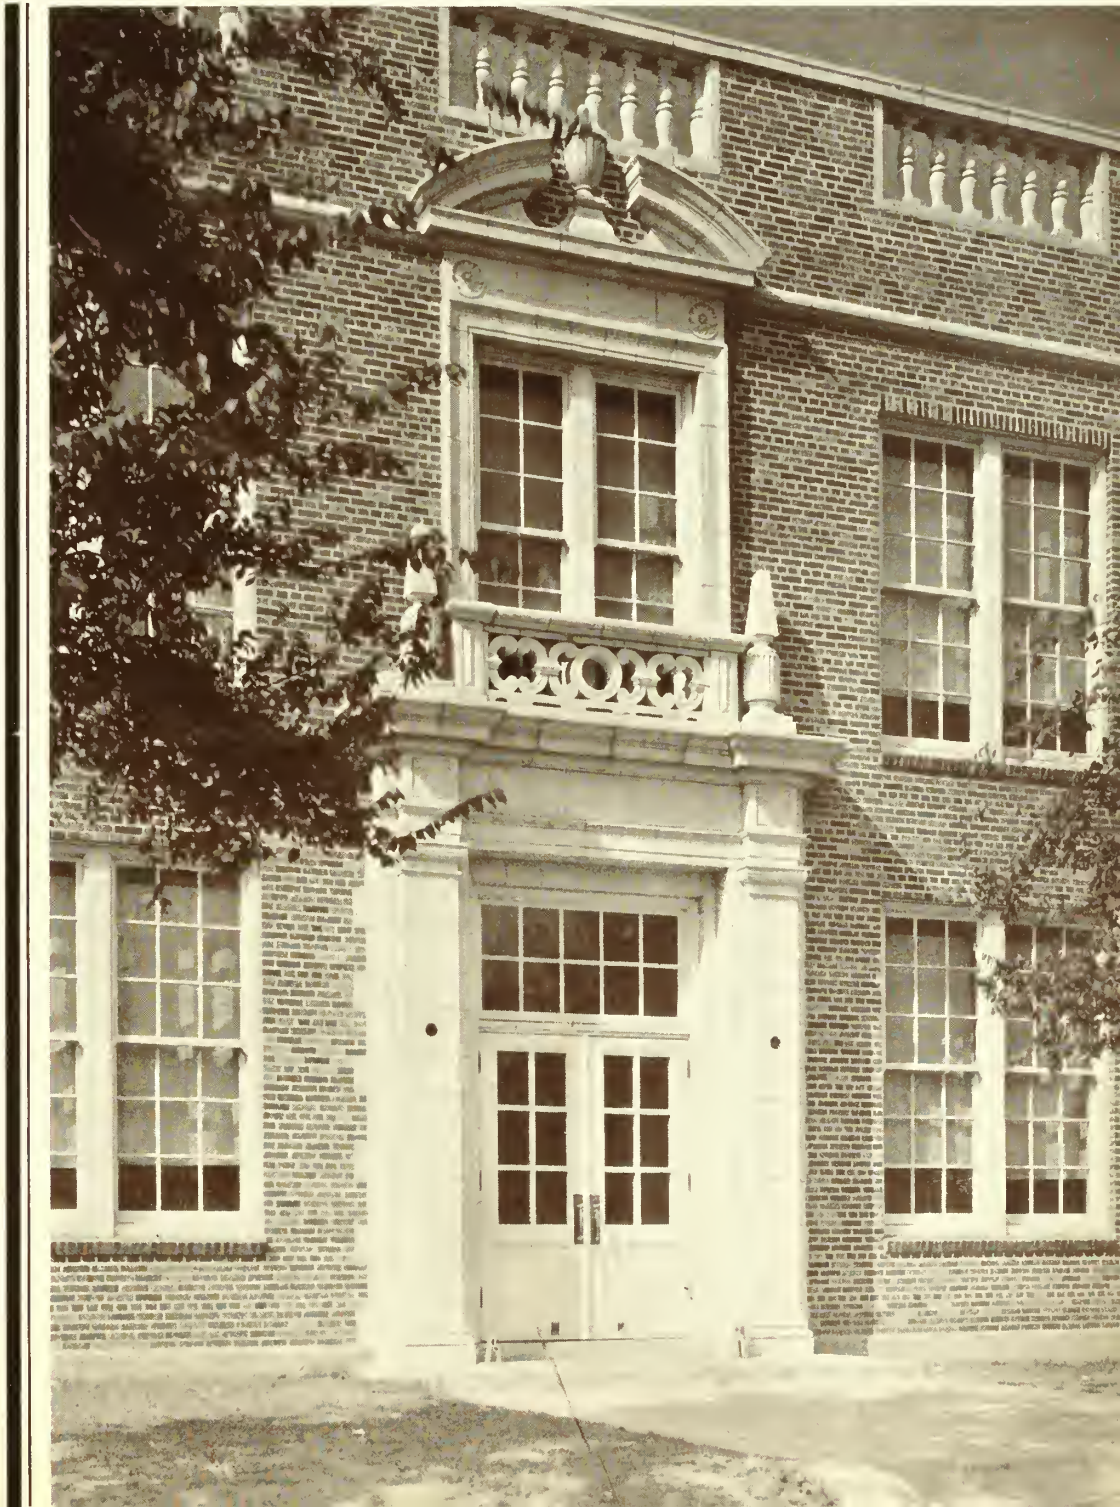

Roaming the Apache reservation for a decade, braves and squaws and young papooses have followed trails to happiness and freedom, have engaged in sportive competition, and have discovered treasured riches in the halls of learning. To commemorate the achievements of the one thousand and sixty-two ex-Apaches and to record the story of the present one hundred and ninety-one Tribesmen, is the purpose of this

IN APPRECIATION

THE inseparability of the facts of a person's life from the record of his accomplishment was a truth which Miss Mattie Jones impressed repeatedly upon her students. No more convincing proof of the verity of that statement than her own history could be evoked. About her life the usual details of biography recede in significance before the strong currents of inspiration and achievement flowing triumphantly from the fountain of wisdom into the lives of countless people whom she awakened to intellectual consciousness and to the dignity of service.

Miss Mattie was a teacher whose concern for pedagogical distinction through the acquisition of academic honors was totally eclipsed by the desire to qualify most ably to instruct. For many years she translated experience and knowledge into useful material for building through education the solid structure of citizenship. Realizing the vicissitudes of life that often subvert honor, she wove into the rich tapestry of her lessons the golden threads of character.

Yet even these bulwarks she considered insufficient against the insidious invasions of temptation. Together with information and ethical procedure one must know the relationship between the present and the eternal, must perceive the divinity in all things. Equipped with this understanding, a student emerging from her classroom would be able to see things in their true perspective and appreciate their relative importance.

Her methods of instruction were unique only in their perfect adaptation to time, place, and the student. In the classroom she gave full expression to her great personality, and her students listened and believed. The secret of her power was not in profundity but in graceful simplicity through which her humor twinkled, her charm radiated, and her joy in living glowed. In her own life she illustrated the efficacy of her principles, and one could scarcely deny that eloquent testimony.

Her absorption in teaching did not dull her ears to the world of affairs. Her multiplicity of interests outside the school gave the sparkle of timeliness to her remarks; her connections with business and industry made her a vocational guide for many whom indecision or circumstance might have deterred; and her complete awareness of swift changes that alter all phases of social and economic life made her able to predict and prepare for the demands of the future.

Although Miss Mattie has retired, although the full flavor of this rich and so humanly lovable life may not be the good fortune of students who now pass through the college halls, theirs will be the heritage of perpetuated memories; for in the minds and hearts of her students she has made indentures through which tributaries of wisdom will flow, extending her name and influence to new eras, confirming her enduring character.

To

MISS MATTIE L. JONES

Who has been a guide to us, teaching us what is wisest to love and honor; who has been a sympathetic companion in all our experiences, and whom we have come to know as our most loyal friend.

A BRIEF SURVEY OF TYLER JUNIOR COLLEGE

The falling leaves of 1926 found Tyler Junior College beginning to carve its record on the totem pole of history, with Mr. G. O. Clough as president and Mr. J. M. Hodges as dean, crystalizing the dream of farsighted citizens. Since 1927 Mr. J. M. Hodges has been president, and the position of dean has been held by Mr. W. A. Nelson, Mr. P. H. Walser, and Mr. H. E. Jenkins. In contrast to the first year's faculty of nine members, the present faculty consists of twenty-two members. The college ranks high, as it has long been a member of the Texas Association of Colleges, the Texas Association of Junior Colleges, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, and the American Association of Junior Colleges. The school has an excellent library containing 5,000 books and 40 periodicals. Col. T. N. Jones, Mrs. A. Golen-ternek, and Mrs. Elizabeth H. Potter have made outstanding contributions.

Apacheland, as the school became known in 1927 by vote of the student body, has many achievements and records of which it is justly proud. No chronicle of Tyler Junior College would be complete without mentioning them.

The first student publications were the "Apache Pow-Wow," appearing in the Courier-Times, and the "Apache" published jointly with the High School annual. Since 1935 the "Apache" has been an independent and much larger issue. In keeping with the Indian tradition, the tribe has acquired a number of trophies. The Totem Pole was designed and presented by an alumnus, Sam Nash, Jr. A tom-tom and a war bonnet were given to the college by Apache Mansos, one of the Council Groups. In 1930 the students adopted the Apache Chant as their school song; both the music and poetry of this haunting Indian melody were composed by a student, Miss Frances Strange.

The activity program has grown through the years. In 1926 there were five clubs, and at present there are ten. The oldest clubs on the campus are the Hiking Club and Las Mascaras. The largest organization is the Women's Athletic Association. Since 1932 Miss Mary Henderson, Dean of Women and faculty sponsor of the club, has given to one or more of the members a scholarship of a semester's tuition, which is the highest honor of the association. In 1930, Alpha Omicron chapter of Phi Theta Kappa was organized in Tyler Junior College. This organization had five members the first year; it now has eight members and seventeen pledges. The Young Citizens Club was founded by the Rotary Club in the same year; members are chosen for meritorious conduct in cleanliness, thriftiness, courtesy, loyalty, honesty, service, dependability, sportsmanship, scholarship, and leadership.

In a number of intercollegiate contests, Apache students have won honors. In 1931 Miss Sara Christian, appearing in "Greasy Luck," presented by Las Mascaras, was selected as the best actress in the district contest; Miss Dixie Alexander achieved the same honor in 1935 in "Mansions." Three times Las Mascaras plays have won second place in the district contests. In the State Oratory Contest at Temple in 1931, Miss Elizabeth Cuthrell won second place. In 1933 the basketball team won the State Championship. Ernest Gilley, Esten Ray, Blake Wood, Ray Gilley, and Cleve Gilley were on the team.

The factor which lends a unity to the rapidly-changing student body is the tradition of democracy which has grown up through the decade of advancement. Based on Indian legends and history, the spirit of Apacheland has become a unique part of student life, as each class has added to the customs and unwritten laws of student behavior. As long as new moons wax and wane, as long as Apache warriors are trained for future councils, the traditions of the Black and Gold will increase in number.

We're Apache tribesmen,
Dauntless, brave, and strong.
To defend our totem pole,
We would suffer long.
Gathered 'round our council fire,
We smoke our pipe of peace.
Real Atta Kula Kula's we—
Till life's pow-wow we cease.

We will be real red men,
Honoring our band.
We will make our tomahawks
Feared throughout the land.
To our sacred Hunting Ground,
We give this song of praise.
Her unstained Black and Gold—
Shall reign throughout our days.

LIFE WITH THE APACHES

The eleventh year on the reservation has seen the accomplishment of a certain goal. In the beginning the faculty conceived of this institution as a true happy-hunting ground; that is, a true democracy characterized by a spirit of happy cooperation. With this year the Apache spirit has become all-pervading; without a discordant element the tribe has been a unit in body and spirit. In work and in play every student has found his place in the group and has been happy.

Early in the fall semester a band of ten braves and squaws attended the second annual meeting of the Texas Student Government Congress at T. C. U. in Fort Worth. Our delegates were Paul Musslewhite, Jane Judge, Myrlene Nerren, Robert Boulter, Barbara Mayfield, Marguerite Henslee, Leon Levinthal, Ben White, Park Tunnell, and Robert Woodson. They returned with a joy of realization: "Our college has true student self-government in that it seems to have no government at all." Aware that their only problem was the establishment of a more collegiate atmosphere in the library, the delegates in reporting to the student body recommended the creation of a Student Library Board. This board, consisting of Paul Musslewhite, Edna Earle Epperson, Edith Allen, Ben Bedell, and Park Tunnell, virtually accomplished its purpose.

The improvements on the reservation have contributed to this altogether successful year. The library, which is the center of all college life, has been enlarged; now it is a place of comfort and beauty with adequate facilities. With the convenient adjoining lounge and kitchen, the library is easily converted into a recreational room. The very modern music hall and the splendid new gymnasium are of exceptional value to tribal activities.

Throughout the years the college has made consistent progress along all lines. Imbued with such a democratic spirit, the life on the reservation will continue to foster intellectual liberty and happiness.

POINTS OF ADVICE TO GIRLS

1. Never make dates with biology students; they enjoy cutting up too much.
2. Be careful of dramatic club members; they usually have several good lines.
3. The tennis man is harmless, but he enjoys a racket.
4. Always let the member of the band talk about himself; he enjoys blowing his own horn.

Miss Walker: "Didn't I tell you to notice when the soup boiled over?"

Edith Allen: "I did. It was 4:10."

Doris McPhail walked into the library and asked Miss Roberts for a copy of The Red Boat. After consulting the card catalogue, Miss Roberts told her that there was no such book in the library. Doris said, "I'm not positive; the title may be The Scarlet Yacht." Miss Roberts looked again, with the same result. Opening her purse, Doris glanced at a slip of paper, and said, "Oh, of course, it's the Rubaiyat."

LETTER FROM AN APACHE TO AN EX-APACHE

Dear Ex-Apache:

Remember all our good times together last year? Young 1936 had just broken through and you had passed chemistry; I, bugology. Everybody kept repeating automatically that prosperity was just around the corner, which made us acutely aware that spring would soon be here, with the new-spring-bonnet problem. That was before the college had been done over, with more classrooms and a larger library. The new Girls' Lounge now occupies the space where Room 212 once was. You know, I learned a lot in that old room. Remember the "measuring stick" and all that?—but we learned something there that will stay with us when the "measuring stick" means only a straight edge.

How many times between classes we ran off to get something to eat! There is no appetite like a Freshman's. In the afternoons we went out to the old courts for tennis, and while waiting for a court, we sat on the old weather-worn bench. I remember how I admired Gullick's tennis, and declared that I could never be that good. Sure enough, I was right.

The thrill of thrills was Girls' Week, with Richard Halliburton. What if my romantic ideas did get a bit let down;—it was just another growing pain, but what a pain while it lasted! When the weather became warmer, we could not resist going for a swim, with those heavenly hamburgers afterward. At last came the day when Hank and Bill handed out the "Apaches," and everyone started chasing autographs. Soon exams arrived; finally we sighed our last sighs, and war-hooped to be out.

Then the Centennial began, with Ginger Rogers and Robert Taylor in the Cotton Bowl. Wasn't Casa Manana the most beautiful, breath-taking show? But time rolled on, and school was with us once more. There was a difference, though, for you weren't here, and I was a dignified Sophomore. Of course, we all miss your jokes, but we do have some one with wit—Stagner. He's a lad "with lokkes crulle, as they were leyd in presse." I know you would have enjoyed the new riding class, which we got up after long suffering. Incidentally, there was some suffering after the class began, too. The Pre-Laws and the Engineers had a great football game; though the Engineers won, I don't think it proves a thing about brain and brawn. There was a very spooky Hallowe'en party in the library about that time; and everyone enjoyed it immensely.

After Christmas vacation was over and we were back at work, the lights went out one afternoon. That was the beginning of the famous ice spell. Sunday evening we heard that school would not meet, as the heating system could not be started. We had an unexpected three-day vacation, during which we lived by candle light. After school started again, there were some thrilling basketball games, notably the one with Lon Morris, with score 25-23.

Well, the Totem Pole still stands.

So long,

Boo.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Women's Athletic Association is composed of women enrolled in the college who are participating in tennis, hiking, or horseback riding. The purpose of the organization is to encourage athletic development as a means of promoting fellowship, recreation, health, and skill in sports. Officers for the year are: President, Edith Allen; Vice-President, Marjorie Sadler; Secretary, Mona Dell Eason; Treasurer, Melba Willis; Publicity Manager, Elizabeth Campbell; Tennis Manager, Jane Judge; Hiking Manager, Ruth Myers; Health Month Monitor, Fannie Belle Pledger; Scrapbook Keeper, Mary Jane Hals; Lounge Hostess, Geneva Mann; Faculty Sponsor, Miss Mary Henderson.

One division of the W. A. A. is the Hiking Club, known as Atta Kula Kula (Friend of the White Man). Each Tuesday the club meets and hikes for an hour; in this way the girls have an opportunity to make new friends. This year the club varied its regular routine by engaging in a few baseball games. The Tennis Club challenged the Hiking Club to a baseball game; and though the hiking girls hate to admit it, they were defeated.

A popular club on the campus is the Tennis Club, which has made great progress this year. Increased interest is due to the two new courts which were built last summer.

The Riding Club is a new division of the W. A. A. Classes meet three afternoons each week. Members have enjoyed the new activity very much.

Each spring a scholarship is awarded to the member or members having a dependable and constructive attitude, possessing a spirit of optimism, making an average grade of C or above, and receiving the highest number of points. Points are awarded for entering into a sport, holding an office, managing a club, making a team, and keeping health month. It is an honor and a distinction to be given this scholarship. Those who won the award in 1935-36 were Fannie Fridkin, Ella Kendrick, and Bernice Gullick. The winners in 1936-37 were Ruth Myers and Fannie Belle Pledger.

Each fall the girls look forward eagerly to the state convention. The hostess school this year was S. M. U. Our delegates, Fannie Belle Pledger, Mona Dell Eason, Ruth Myers, Elizabeth Ann Harrell, and Edith Allen, returned brimful of ideas which they presented in an entertaining assembly program.

This year the girls and their sponsor, by their diligence and perseverance, were able to place a nice couch in the girls' lounge. They derive great pleasure from this gift, which will be enjoyed for many years.

The Pre-Law Club is an organization of students who intend to enter the legal profession. It is one of the most active clubs in the college, the rival of the Engineers.

This year the organization had a large membership which included leaders in all school activities.

Mr. H. E. Jenkins is the sponsor of the club.

Las Mascaras, the dramatic club of Tyler Junior College, entertained the District One-Act Play Contest in March, 1936. Lon Morris Junior College, Jacksonville Baptist College, Marshall Junior College, and Tyler Junior College entered the contest. The Tyler entry was "The Singapore Spider." The club's spring production, "Green Stockings," was given in honor of the graduating classes of Tyler High School and the other high schools of the surrounding towns. Until this year the sponsor has been Miss Mildred Howell.

December 11, Las Mascaras presented Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." In February, the club gave two one-act plays, "Light," and "Who Says Can't." Las Mascaras again entered the District Contest, which was held in Jacksonville.

This year the Engineers' Club with Mr. E. A. Lawver as sponsor had the largest membership in its history. The group has been very active, both in school activities and in the promotion of friendship between the school and various engineering firms.

During the year the club went on a number of interesting field trips. Members of the organization went through the new gymnasium while it was under construction; they also went to a photo copy company, a foundary, an oil refinery, and an electric power plant.

Early in the year the Engineers' Club defeated the Pre-Laws in a football game by a score of 13-6.

The Literary Workshop adopted as its purpose for the year the study of the biography. As a part of this study-program, the members attended Miss Evelyn Oppenheimer's book review of the modern biography, "Saint Joan of Arc" by V. Sackville West, which was a source of inspiration for the entire year's work. Members of the organization found the study to be both enjoyable and profitable.

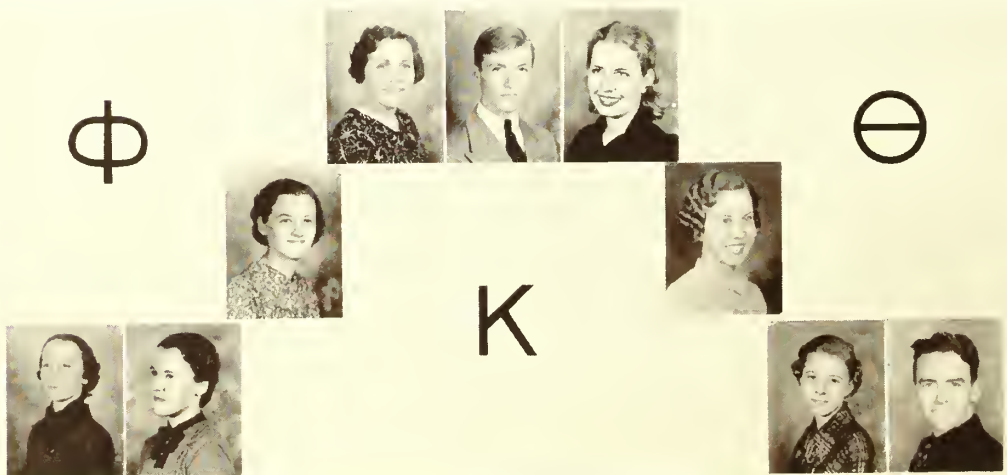

THE GIRLS' FORUM OF TYLER

The Girls' Forum is one of the most outstanding clubs in the school. It is composed of High School and Junior College girls; the sponsor is Miss Adele Henderson.

BASKETBALL

This year the Apaches had quite a successful season. Loy Gilbert, center and captain of the team, was a consistently high scorer. Jerry Walters, tall forward, was especially valuable in gaining possession of the ball. G. T. Stagner, a good passer and floor-man, was responsible for many of our victories. Joe Terry, master of one-hand shots, was an outstanding scorer. T. L. Gilley's steady floor work and dependable guarding ability were of great worth to the team. The lettermen were Loy Gilbert, Joe Terry, G. T. Stagner, T. L. Gilley, Jerry Walters, Hurly Ray Craddock, Harris Burton, Burns Tilton, Milson White, Ben White, and Joe Leach, Manager.

This year marked the opening of the new $100,000.00 gymnasium. Large and enthusiastic crowds were present at every game.
